Upper Shannon Route Planner

Our Carrick-on-Shannon marina station bustles with cruisers and cosmopolitan crews busily preparing to cast off for their waterway adventures. The small pretty town is Ireland's cruising centre, offering a rich choice of provisions as well as a wide selection of pubs and restaurants.

From here, a northerly heading takes you along the narrow, tree-lined Boyle River which then leads into Lough Key. This is a magical place with stunning scenery and nestled on its banks is the Forest Park. It's worth spending some time here, following the splendid nature trails and claiming a secluded picnic site. Heading north, you can also access Lough Allen, or head towards the Shannon/Erne waterway, leading to Lough Erne.

On a southerly heading, the Shannon slowly widens, flowing gently by a cluster of small towns and villages and all well worth a visit. As you slowly cruise downstream, the river leads through a ribbon of Loughs that stretch for miles until you reach Lough Ree, a vast, inland sea that boasts inspiring scenery and diverse wildlife. If you fancy some fish for supper, cast your line over the side - the fishing on Lough Ree will rarely disappoint. Hodson Bay is an excellent stop-off point on the southern shore or make your way along to Athlone, a town with a long history and a choice of extremely good golf courses.

Leitrim

This little village is the gateway to the Shannon. The village pulled itself from near ruin in the 1600's when Donal O' Sullivan ended his long march from Kerry at Leitrim Castle, the ruins of which you can still see close to the marina. Leitrim is now a thriving little town with many mooring facilities and is a popular stop off as the entrance to the Shannon Erne Waterway. There is a post office and shop if you need to top up supplies.

Drumshanbo, Lough Allen

The beautiful setting of Lough Allen has Sliabh an Iarainn, the Iron Mountain, to the East and the Arigna Mountains to the west. The Lough Allen Canal was constructed in 1820 to enable coal mined in the Arigna area to be brought down the Shannon to the Royal Canal. The main area of interest on the canal is at Drumshanbo. The first mooring at Acres Lake is about 5 minutes walk to the village of Drumshanbo. The alternative mooring at the lock is about 15 minutes walk to the village. Acres Lake has family amenities including outdoor swimming pool, tennis court, children's playground and a pool table. The pretty village of Drumshanbo is surrounded by scenic woodland and there are a number of pleasant walks around the hills in the area. There are a number of grocery shops, a pharmacy, a post office, a laundrette and a number of pubs that serve good food and often have entertainment at weekends. There is a very good Gala Supermarket with an instore restaurant and bakery and they will also look after your bait and fishing needs.

Other attractions include the Looking Tower and views from the top are spectacular - you can also wander around the old church ruins or take a walk along Ireland's only Tree Canopy Trail. One of the latest additions is Zipit Forest Adventures www.zipit.ie with circuits for adults and children.

Many of the islands of Lough Key have the remains of early Christian monasteries or churches and Castle Island and Trinity Island are worth investigating but you can only access the islands by dinghy, as the water is too shallow for cruisers.

Boyle

Boyle is a large, modern town with a rich history, much of it centred on the King family, one of the wealthiest families in 17th century Ireland. The town has gained fame in recent years due to the success of the Sky TV comedy series "Moone Boy", set in the town and recalling tales of a 1980's childhood. There are a number of walking trail around the town, including the Historic Town Trail, Drumman's Island trail and Moone Boy trail. Clondra/Richmond Harbour

Clondra is a small town that typifies the Irish way of life - peaceful, easygoing, with no concept of time. That is until it becomes a hive of activity during the many events and festivals during the summer months. These include a heritage week, outdoor country music festival and a canal boat rally. There is a very good children's playground at the harbour.

History and Heritage

The historic harbour is where the Royal Canal meets the River Shannon. This imposing harbour was once home to a flax mill and the flax was transported along the Royal Canal to Dublin. It was also an embarkation point during the famine times for passengers to begin their long journey to the New World.

Beside the present church in Clondra, is the site of a 12th century abbey, which was probably an early monastic settlement. You can also see 2 gravestones dating from the 5th century.

The three interconnecting lakes of Killinure, Ballykeeran and Coosan are known as the Inner Lakes and are a fisherman's paradise. The marshes and reedbeds in this area provide a habitat for a number of interesting plants and flowers, in particular many species of orchid. The village of Glasson, known as the "Village of the Roses" is in Goldsmith Country, the area where the famous Irish writer Oliver Goldsmith lived. The village is about a 30 minute walk from either the Wineport Lodge or Glasson Golf Club and it has a shop for stocking up on groceries and a pharmacy. There is a number of very high quality restaurants for such a small village. It is also home to Glasson Craft Gallery, which houses a mix of genuine Irish homemade craft and original art.
